If so, then join author Maggie MacKellar for 4 days of inspiration, writing, great company, food and wine at Brockley Estate, a 170 year old Tasmanian Heritage Homestead.

Maggie MacKellar is a Tasmanian based writer whose books include the best-selling memoirs, When it Rains and How To Get There.
"An amazing honest treatise ... Slowly, MacKellar discovers the meaning of life; at least, as it applies to her. It is a level of self-awareness - nirvana even - few of us will ever truly know" - Canberra Times

Join Maggie for this truly inspiring experience and let her be your guide in finding your unique 'voice'.

Tasmanian Writers' Retreat with best-selling author Maggie MacKellar | May 22 - 25, 2015 | $1,499 pp

Do you write in a secret journal and wonder if your words, with a bit of work, might find an audience?

Do you write for a living but want to change genres and push yourself to improve your writing?

Do you write a blog and want your writing to be better - have more of an impact?

If you need a space to let the words rise up, in an atmosphere of creativity and companionship, where you have the room to be alone, or part of a group, then this writing retreat is for you.

The retreat will consist of informal small group sessions where structure, editing your work, writing for an audience, finding your voice and shaping your story will be discussed. There will be plenty of time for focussing on a work in progress, along with writing exercises to develop your skills as a story-teller.

Over the 4 days Maggie will be available to read and comment on your work.

As well as writing her own books, Maggie has lectured in writing memoir, history and literature and has taught writing workshops at the New South Wales Writers' Centre.

The writing retreat includes:

- 4 days with Maggie to learn, laugh, be inspired and write!
- 3 nights accommodation at Brockley Estate Heritage Homestead
- All meals including morning and afternoon teas and welcome drinks on arrival
- Return transfers from Hobart to Brockley Estate
